

For Immediate Release
April 12, 2005

For more information, contact:
Monica Fennell
Executive Director, Indiana Pro Bono Commission
800-266-2581
mfennell@inbar.org

LOCAL RESIDENT RECEIVES PRO BONO AWARD

*Stipend will allow attorney to attend national conference
aimed at improving legal services to poor in area*

Judith Stanton of Hobart, Ind., received one of five statewide awards of $2,000 to attend the American Bar Association's Equal Justice Conference in Austin, Texas, May 5–7. This is a national conference that brings together those individuals and groups dedicated to pro bono and legal assistance.

The Indiana Pro Bono Commission, which is organized in 14 pro bono districts, was able to award five scholarships to the districts. Stanton will represent District One, which consists of Lake, Porter, LaPorte, Starke, Pulaski, Jasper and Newton counties. She was selected by her district to receive the stipend and attend the conference.

Stanton is the pro bono plan administrator for District One in Hobart, Ind.

She was chosen for her dedication to the innovative development and delivery of legal services to the poor in her district. Stanton has contributed significant time and energy toward pro bono service in Indiana.

The Indiana Pro Bono Commission seeks to ensure equal access to justice for all Indiana citizens regardless of economic status by creating and promoting opportunities for attorneys to provide pro bono civil legal services. The Indiana Pro Bono Commission is a project of the Indiana Bar Foundation.

###

For Immediate Release
April 12, 2005

For more information, contact:
Monica Fennell
Executive Director, Indiana Pro Bono Commission
800-266-2581
mfennell@inbar.org

LOCAL RESIDENT RECEIVES PRO BONO AWARD

*Stipend will allow attorney to attend national conference
aimed at improving legal services to poor in area*

Sherry Clarke of South Bend, Ind., received one of five statewide awards of $2,000 to attend the American Bar Association's Equal Justice Conference in Austin, Texas, May 5–7. This is a national conference that brings together those individuals and groups dedicated to pro bono and legal assistance.

The Indiana Pro Bono Commission, which is organized in 14 pro bono districts, was able to award five scholarships to the districts. Clarke will represent District Two, which consists of St. Joseph, Elkhart, Marshall and Kosciusko counties. She was selected by her district to receive the stipend and attend the conference.

Clarke is the pro bono plan administrator for District Two in South bend, Ind.

She was chosen for her dedication to the innovative development and delivery of legal services to the poor in her district. Clarke has contributed significant time and energy toward pro bono service in Indiana.

The Indiana Pro Bono Commission seeks to ensure equal access to justice for all Indiana citizens regardless of economic status by creating and promoting opportunities for attorneys to provide pro bono civil legal services. The Indiana Pro Bono Commission is a project of the Indiana Bar Foundation.

###

For Immediate Release
April 12, 2005

For more information, contact:
Monica Fennell
Executive Director, Indiana Pro Bono Commission
800-266-2581
mfennell@inbar.org

LOCAL RESIDENT RECEIVES PRO BONO AWARD

*Stipend will allow attorney to attend national conference
aimed at improving legal services to poor in area*

Judy Whitelock of Fort Wayne, Ind., received one of five statewide awards of $2,000 to attend the American Bar Association's Equal Justice Conference in Austin, Texas, May 5–7. This is a national conference that brings together those individuals and groups dedicated to pro bono and legal assistance.

The Indiana Pro Bono Commission, which is organized in 14 pro bono districts, was able to award five scholarships to the districts. Whitelock will represent District Three, which consists of Allen, LaGrange, Steuben, Noble, DeKalb, Whitley, Huntington, Wells and Adams counties. She was selected by her district to receive the stipend and attend the conference.

Whitelock is the pro bono plan administrator for District Three in Fort Wayne, Ind.

She was chosen for her dedication to the innovative development and delivery of legal services to the poor in her district. Whitelock has contributed significant time and energy toward pro bono service in Indiana.

The Indiana Pro Bono Commission seeks to ensure equal access to justice for all Indiana citizens regardless of economic status by creating and promoting opportunities for attorneys to provide pro bono civil legal services. The Indiana Pro Bono Commission is a project of the Indiana Bar Foundation.

###

For Immediate Release
April 12, 2005

For more information, contact:
Monica Fennell
Executive Director, Indiana Pro Bono Commission
800-266-2581
mfennell@inbar.org

LOCAL RESIDENT RECEIVES PRO BONO AWARD

*Stipend will allow attorney to attend national conference
aimed at improving legal services to poor in area*

Hon. William J. Hughes of Noblesville, Ind., received one of five statewide awards of $2,000 to attend the American Bar Association's Equal Justice Conference in Austin, Texas, May 5–7. This is a national conference that brings together those individuals and groups dedicated to pro bono and legal assistance.

The Indiana Pro Bono Commission, which is organized in 14 pro bono districts, was able to award five scholarships to the districts. Hon. Hughes will represent District Eight, which consists of Marion, Boone, Hamilton, Hancock, Shelby, Johnson and Morgan counties. He was selected by his district to receive the stipend and attend the conference.

Hon. Hughes is the Judicial Appointee for District Eight in Noblesville, Ind.

He was chosen for his dedication to the innovative development and delivery of legal services to the poor in his district. Hon. Hughes has contributed significant time and energy toward pro bono service in Indiana.

The Indiana Pro Bono Commission seeks to ensure equal access to justice for all Indiana citizens regardless of economic status by creating and promoting opportunities for attorneys to provide pro bono civil legal services. The Indiana Pro Bono Commission is a project of the Indiana Bar Foundation.

###

For Immediate Release
April 12, 2005

For more information, contact:
Monica Fennell
Executive Director, Indiana Pro Bono Commission
800-266-2581
mfennell@inbar.org

LOCAL RESIDENT RECEIVES PRO BONO AWARD

*Stipend will allow attorney to attend national conference
aimed at improving legal services to poor in area*

Beverly Corn of Evansville, Ind., received one of five statewide awards of $2,000 to attend the American Bar Association's Equal Justice Conference in Austin, Texas, May 5–7. This is a national conference that brings together those individuals and groups dedicated to pro bono and legal assistance.

The Indiana Pro Bono Commission, which is organized in 14 pro bono districts, was able to award five scholarships to the districts. Corn will represent District Thirteen, which consists of Knox, Daviess, Martin, Dubois, Perry, Spencer, Warrick, Vanderburgh, Posey, Gibson and Pike counties. She was selected by her district to receive the stipend and attend the conference.

Corn is the pro bono plan administrator for District Thirteen in Evansville, Ind.

She was chosen for her dedication to the innovative development and delivery of legal services to the poor in her district. Corn has contributed significant time and energy toward pro bono service in Indiana.

The Indiana Pro Bono Commission seeks to ensure equal access to justice for all Indiana citizens regardless of economic status by creating and promoting opportunities for attorneys to provide pro bono civil legal services. The Indiana Pro Bono Commission is a project of the Indiana Bar Foundation.

###